

Medical equipment manufacturer Neurolif partner with Metric for placement of new CEO

Metric places Scott Drees as new CEO of neuromodulation company Neurolif.

New York, December 2022 - Global recruitment company Metric is pleased to announced another successful executive placement with the appointment of Scott Drees as US based CEO for Neurolif.

Scott joins Neurolif with an impressive 27-year track record in the neuromodulation space and extensive experience in the commercialization of neuromodulation technologies uniquely positioning him to take Neurolif to its next phase of growth.

Founder of Neurolif Amit Dar had this to say about the partnership with Metric: “Several months ago, the board of directors decided to recruit a US based CEO that will lead the company in its worldwide commercialization and growth. Understanding the critical role of the CEO in maximizing the company’s success and knowing that the allocation of a highly qualified person for this role may be challenging, I contacted John-Joe Walker and asked him to lead the CEO search process. I knew John-Joe has vast experience in executive search and specializes in the Medtech and Neuromodulation fields.

From the beginning of the process I felt we were in highly professional hands. Starting from our initial call John-Joe was able to have an in-depth understanding of the company needs and expectations. This was rapidly translated into a short list of highly suitable and capable candidates. He was also very good generating high interest, getting the candidates enthusiastic about the opportunity.

Later John-Joe successfully followed and coordinated the entire process of interviews of the selected candidates. During this multiple step process he was able to maintain high interest of the candidates and provided clever advice to me and the board of directors. He was also helpful in the final terms negotiation until a successful closing with the selected candidate.

Having previous experience with executive recruitment processes I can say that the CEO recruitment process we had with John-Joe was very efficient, fast and with a very successful outcome. I would highly recommend JohnJoe’s services for anyone who wishes to have an effective executive search and placement.”

Most recently Scott served as CEO of Neuromodulation Ventures LLC, a private company which is focused on the incubation of new neuromodulation companies. Prior to that, he was CEO and Director of Nuvectra, a public company which designed and commercialized the AlgoVita Spinal Cord Stimulation system from 2015 - 2019. Search lead and Metric CCO John-Joe Walker commented: “It was a pleasure to work closely alongside Amit and the board of directors at Neurolif to find the perfect candidate to lead their global growth plans and be their first US based hire. Scott’s pedigree in the neuromodulation field makes him the ideal placement for such an exciting role.”

About Metric

Listed as a Financial Times Fastest Growing Company, Metric is a New York-founded executive and specialty recruitment firm. Working alongside some of the world’s most innovative and cutting-edge businesses, Metric builds global, high-performing teams that redefine industry standards across the MedTech, Life Sciences, Infrastructure, Engineering, Data Centers, and Digital Infrastructure sectors.

Backed by private equity, Metric Exec delivers C-suite and board-level talent solutions that create value across our partners’ portfolio companies and the sectors we serve.