

Metric facilitates appointment of Nanci Gilmore as President of MIMOSA Diagnostics

Metric has been working closely alongside innovative MedTech imaging company MIMOSA Diagnostics in the successful placement of Nanci Gilmore as the new company President.

New York, December 2025 - New York-founded recruitment firm Metric is proud to announce the successful placement of Nanci Gilmore as President at MIMOSA Diagnostics. MIMOSA Diagnostics is a pioneering MedTech company whose flagship product, the MIMOSA Pro, is a pocket-sized, near-infrared imaging device that enables clinicians to assess tissue health at the point of care, making the invisible visible.

Nanci brings a wealth of commercial leadership experience across the MedTech industry, having most recently served as Chief Commercial Officer at SANUWAVE. Prior to that, she held senior commercial roles at THINK Surgical, where she served as Director of Customer Support and Commercial Operations, and at Echosens North America as Director of Clinical and Commercial Strategy. Her career in MedTech leadership began at ImpediMed, where she served as National Director of Sales Strategy and Program Implementation, building the commercial foundations that have defined her career ever since.

Leveraging his decade of experience as a world-leading recruiter, the search was led by Metric CCO John-Joe Walker.

Karen Cross, Co-Founder and CEO of MIMOSA Diagnostics, said of the process: "John-Joe was relentless in finding a President that was a perfect fit within our organization. Finding an executive with the proper skill set in our very niche area was not easy but they found her fast, had a system for the interview and evaluation, and were consistent partners throughout the hiring process. Grateful to the team at Metric."

Speaking of the placement, Metric CCO John-Joe Walker commented: "It was a privilege to support MIMOSA Diagnostics in finding the right commercial leader to drive their next phase of growth. Nanci's depth of experience across the MedTech sector, and her proven ability to build and scale commercial functions, make her an outstanding fit for the President role at such an exciting and innovative company."
