

Metric Exec announces VP of EHS appointment at Sun Tribe

Metric Exec facilitates the successful appointment of John Michael Simmons as Vice President of Environmental, Health & Safety (EHS) at Sun Tribe, a leading solar EPC.

New York, October 2025 – New York-founded recruitment firm Metric is proud to announce the successful appointment of John Michael Simmons to support Sun Tribe's continued growth across utility-scale and commercial solar projects, providing senior leadership oversight across safety, compliance, and operational risk management. Since joining, he has played a key role in aligning EHS strategy with project execution, field operations, and Sun Tribe's long-term growth objectives.

"Senior EHS leadership is critical in fast-scaling EPC environments, particularly within renewable energy," said Kirsty Beckwith, Director of Metric Exec. "This placement reflects Sun Tribe's commitment to operational excellence, safety culture, and sustainable growth."

Reflecting on the search process, John Michael Simmons commented:

"From our very first interaction through to follow-up after I joined the role, Kirsty went above and beyond to ensure true alignment between myself, the role, and Sun Tribe. She was transparent, extremely knowledgeable, communicative, and genuinely cared about both my success and the company's. It was an absolute pleasure working with her, and I look forward to partnering with her in the future from an employer perspective as well."

The search was led by Kirsty Beckwith, Director of Metric Exec, who partnered closely with Sun Tribe's leadership team to identify an EHS leader with the technical depth, leadership capability, and renewable EPC experience required to succeed in a high-growth environment.

This placement further reinforces Metric Exec's strength in delivering senior leadership talent across renewable energy, infrastructure, and EPC organizations.
